

Environmental

Geopolitical

Energy

Economy

Aesthetic

AESTHETIC

DAVID LLOYD MURPHY
West Hartford

“THE LATE, GREAT YELLOW NO. 2”
(24”H X 24”W x 132”L)

Once upon a time the unassuming and yet remarkable Yellow No. 2 (made from renewable resources and used without consuming a millivolt of electricity) was the primary tool of school children, fundamental implement for inventing, essential device for translating what the brain saw into pictures, principal instrument for creating first draft novels, gizmo of choice for bean counters, and the most popular item to chew while thinking. Then consider what happens if the power grid fails. Keep your non-energy consuming pencils sharp.

For sale, price negotiable.
Contact: David Lloyd Murphy
(860-233-2096)